Antidiarrheal LOPERAMIDE Solution

Antidiarrheal LOPERAMIDE Solution

Oral Way For dogs and cats Loperamide is meperidine derivative. The antidiarrheic action is achieved by its modulating effect on intestinal motility, which, in turn is achieved through the stimulation of the rhythmic segmentation (acting on circular smooth muscle) and by decreasing the peristalsis (with either no effect on the longitudinal smooth muscle, or relaxing it), as well as due to the antisecretory effect, increasing the absorption of nutrients, water and electrolytes, achieved by blocking the channel of calcium or by inhibiting the calcium binding protein, calmodulin

Formula:

Each ml of oral solution contains:

Loperamide hydrochloride.....2 mg Vehicle q.s.

Indications:

Symptomatic treatment of acute and chronic diarrhea.

KEEP OUT OF REACH OF CHILDREN.

National poison centre: 1-800-222-1222 (Puerto Rico and USA)

National poison centre: 0-800-333-0160 / (54 11) 4654-6648 (Argentina)

Side effects:

Constipation, after prolonged treatment.

Contraindications:

Toxigenic Infections with e. Coli, Salmonella, Shigella and Pseudomembranous Colitis caused by antibiotics. In these cases, diarrhea plays a protective role, since it accelerates the elimination of micro-organisms, thus avoiding the proliferation of the same, the invasion of mucosa and the absorption of toxic products (enterotoxemia).

Dose:

Dogs and cats: 0.1 mg/2.204 Lb. equivalent to 1 drop per 2.204 Lb. every 8 hours.

During the administration of the product, you will observe:

- (1) Lower frequency in bowel movements.
- (2) Lower volume of stool.
- (3) Changes in consistency: from fluid to solid.
- (4) Control of diarrhea.

Presentation:

10 ml dropper

Keep between 40 degree and 95 degree F
