Tips For Use

For best results, apply Scar Control immediately after a wound has closed. It should be Generally, after one or two months of application, you will notice the discoloration of the scar begin to fade which will continue until the skin gradually returns to its original state. After two or three months of treatment, raised scars will often show signs of shrinkage and become flatter.

Note: The first application of each day should be on clean/dry skin as if you just stepped out of the shower and completely dried off.
